

AMY KITCHENER'S

ANGELS WITHOUT WINGS FOUNDATION

1325 W. Sunshine Street, Box 168—Springfield, Missouri 65807 USA —Phone 417 883-1655

A. L. Baker, Webmaster  Yvonne Nunn, Dean, Cyber-College of Online Poetry  Wanda Sue Parrott, Founder/Editor
www.amykitchenerfdn.org ybyrdnunn@yahoo.com amykitchenerfdn@hotmail.com

THE DIPLOMAT

Volume VIII, Number 1

News Letter

March 2009

of the World's most unique Literary Society where we turn Scribblers into Scribes and Meeting the Muse is a way of life

The Last Indian on the Trail of Tears...

Stanzaic standoff ends; city buys Parrott's "Place of Weeping Waters"

After many delays, the City of Springfield, Missouri, finally took possession of my flood-ravaged property on Feb. 2, 2009. Thus, the historic tale of the symbolic last Indian on the Trail of Tears ended with peace, prosperity and poetic presentations I would love to share with the world.

As I write this, my cat Big Blackie and I are roommates in a small 2-bedroom apartment filled with bags and boxes. A friend is the catsitter for my other two feline friends who will stay in her nice home until my son Teddy comes from California to transport us to our new residence/office, which will be the 2nd headquarters of Amy Kitchener's Angels Without Wings Foundation. It hasn't yet been named, but the address will be (after 5-15-09): P. O. Box 103, Monterey, CA 93940. Phone will be added later. Because of the stress moving causes, and the fact I have no adequate furnishings in the apartment on which to do much editorial work, I plan to mail publicity about the Senior Poets Laureate Contest solely by electronic means this year; further, the only hard copies of this newsletter that will go by snail mail are those to our readers who do not have e-mail, which is only about 2 or 3 percent. So enjoy this abbreviated newsletter, which contains some good news, some not-so-good news and some fun news.

May the Muse be with you.

Wanda Sue Parrott, Editor

Wanda Sue Parrott (left) as a newspaper reporter (1968) named Honorary Chief of the White Buffalo Tribe all-tribal workshop in Los Angeles; and, (right) in 2008 as the symbolic Last Indian on the Trail of Tears, Springfield, FLOODVILLE, U.S.A." Greene County, Missouri.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

CONTEST NEWS: Entries now being accepted in 2009 SENIOR POETS LAUREATE Contest. Page 2.

POETIC PASSAGES: Missouri Senior Poet Laureate/Inventor Jeanne Streible Dies of Cancer. Page 3..

READER RESPONSES: Amy's Holiday Challenge proves poetry should be, can be & is fun. Page 4.

BOOK LOOK: See our readers' new titles. Is yours among them? If not, why not? Page 4..

For exciting vivid details,
Scroll down to WEEPING WATERS
SECTION on our website.

Click: <http://www.amykitchenerfdn.org>